

The Bus Infrastructure Hardware Specialists

Transforming the Waiting Experience Through Innovation, Design & Technology

It is now widely recognized that the backbone of any successful city and thriving economy is an efficient, modern, reliable and progressive public transport system.

Such a system is imperative if cities are to reduce congestion, reduce pollution and encourage tourism, international trade and economic growth by providing accessibility to residence, commuters, business professionals and holiday makers.

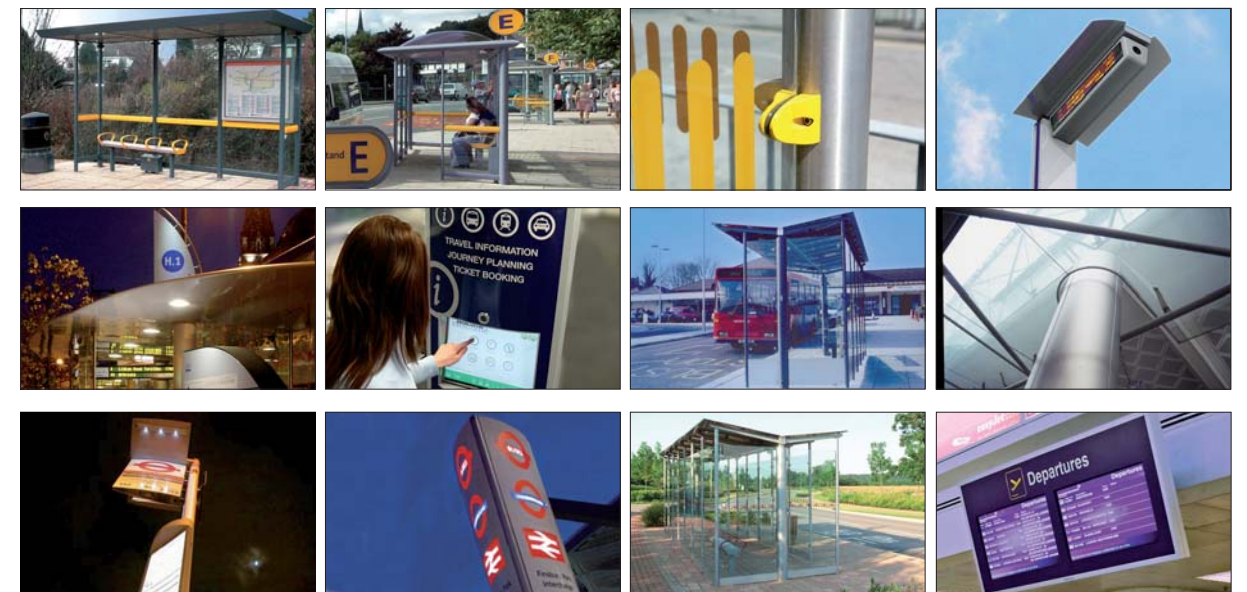

Trueform have a proven track record in the provision of integrated and co-ordinated public transport infrastructure and intelligent transport hardware that attracts travellers by 'Transforming the Waiting Experience'.

Trueform's hardware solutions replace uncertainty, discomfort and hassle with places that protect, inform and value the customer and make public transport systems more accessible and inclusive, streets safer, cities more attractive and environmentally friendly.

Trueform design and develop infrastructure that is integrated with the very latest in intelligent transport technology. Trueform is developing a global perspective based on its research and development from many of the developed countries around the world.

In this way Trueform has become the leading BRT Transport Infrastructure company with a clear perspective on how best to apply advanced public transport technology and provide the local infrastructure by understanding the needs of the local community whilst taking into account the possibilities for the next generation of systems and users.
